

Enter the Social Enterprise Awards!

Think you could make the grade as a Top 100 Social Business?

SOCIAL ENTERPRISE

HOME | CONTACT | SEARCH

SUBSCRIBE

LIVEWIRE

RSS

YOUR BLOGS

Lambs Farm: Bringing More Than Baked Goods to the HHR Table

Posted By Helping Hand Rewards

On 27 September 2010 - 3:29pm

2 tweets

retweet

Helping Hand Rewards' newest partner is Chicago-based Lambs Farm, a non-profit organization helping over 260 people with developmental disabilities. Through employment opportunities, these individuals learn valuable vocational skills that can be transferred to other jobs in nearby communities, helping them create more sustainable lives for themselves.

What started as a small pet shop has grown into a sprawling campus. Located in Libertyville, Illinois (a Chicago suburb) they've grown their outreach to a country-style restaurant, a petting zoo, a country store and an amazing bakery. With these different business functions all out at their farm, Lambs Farm has been able to help, teach and even house hundreds of mentally disabled individuals have a more normal working life.

Social outreach isn't all that Lambs Farm brings to the table. Their assortment of baked goods is absolutely out of this world! Famous for their "Butter Cookies," they also provide toffee and turtlelets. In our Holiday Card assortment this year, we'll be featuring their "Chocolate Lovers Collection" – three pounds of a lavish chocolate variety including an array of buttery English toffee, dark, milk and white Lambs Farm logo chocolates, dipped fruit, enrobed sandwich cookies, dark chocolate nut bark, turtles, nut clusters and coconut patties.

Want to learn more about Lambs Farm? Check them out at LambsFarm.org or even on Twitter as @lambsfarm.

If you're attending the Motivation Show this year, it makes a prime opportunity to learn more in person. Lambs Farm will be featured at our Helping Hand Rewards Booth at this years show. Check in at the booth on Foursquare and you're likely to score some free samples.

Add a Comment

ORIGINAL ARTICLE

